- meal applications vs. alternative income forms: pros & cons

LCFF Data Collection for SY 21-22

Pros and Cons of the Data Collection Form

Overview

Here are a few facts about income data collection for SY 21-22.

- During SY 21-22, Child Nutrition Programs are not required to collect applications for free and reduced-price meals due to the USDA waivers allowing programs to serve meals for free to all students under SSO for the entire school year.
- In California, under the Local Control Funding Formula, school districts must collect income information on their student population. The number of students eligible for free and reduced meals during SY 21-22 has no direct impact on the Child Nutrition Program. However, it does have a significant effect on the School District budget due to LCFF.
- How school districts collect this data is a local decision. Data can be collected through the use of an alternative income form or a school meal application. Data collected from either of these forms can be used for LCFF purposes and for helping families quality for P-EBT, AP test waivers, discounts on utility bills, and other related benefits.
- There are pros and cons to either data collection method. The decision as to which form is used should ultimately be made by the School District Administration (CBO), not the Child Nutrition Department because the fiscal impact of income data collection efforts will impact the General Fund into Fund 130.
- Because income data is not required for Child Nutrition Program operations, data collection efforts cannot be paid for by the Nutrition Department. Employees of the Child Nutrition Program who spend time and effort processing income data must complete a PARS report and be billed to a non-program funding source (i.e., general

  - "this will help provide more classroom $ to our school!"

*the CDE permitted schools to call families and complete LCFF forms over the phone during SY 20-21. TBD for SY 21-22.

What is Cultural Competence?

Civil Rights Feb 28, 2021 0 Comments

Every February, we celebrate something special in the U.S. And no, we're not talking about Valentine's Day. We're talking about Black History Month - one way our nation shows respect and recognition for the hard work of and sacrifices made by African Americans. As former President Obama said in a 2016 speech,

"It's about taking an unvarnished look at the past so we can create a better future. It's a reminder of where we as a country have been so that we know where we need to go."

How to Use Emergency Procurement

Covid-19, Procurement May 26, 2021 0 Comments

Let's go shopping! Or rather, for us School Nutrition Professionals, let's go procuring! As most child nutrition directors know, purchasing items for your cafeteria is not as simple as running to the local grocery store. Procurement requires great finesse to get what you want, when and where you need it, and at the best price – all while not breaking any rules. This

TIPS FOR STAFFING SUMMER MEALS PROGRAMS

No Kid Hungry gathered advice from summer nutrition heroes who have found innovative ways to ensure that their programs stay afloat in the summertime with passionate and dedicated staff. Below are some of their recommended strategies for staffing summer meals programs.

Employ Teens

Employing teens can benefit your summer meals program in so many ways, while also giving teenagers the opportunity for meaningful and paid summer work experience.

Benefits for the summer meals program:

- Employing teens builds trust with kids in the community. Employing teens as site staff not only make sites more comfortable for children to attend, but also gives younger kids mentors to look up to When Kids at their Best (CO) began employing teens at their summer meals sites, they found that kids kept coming back, and they saw a 30% increase in participation.
- Teens put in hard work. In Burke County, GA, about half of the summer nutrition staff are teens. Donn Martin, the school nutrition director, reports that the teens who work for the program are incredibly hard workers who are willing to take on any role. She finds that her employees who are athletes (many play on the rootball team) even enjoy lifting moving boxes from storage to production and loading and lifting coolers. They consider it house training house, but with a excheck attached.
